

Carrie Knudsen Hendrickson, Managing Director, joined the Sinfonia staff in February of 2015 and is a musician and arts manager. Carrie holds a Master's Degree in Arts and Cultural Management from Saint Mary's University. Previously she was a student at Viterbo University and later the Jacobs School of Music at Indiana University, studying Opera Performance, Music Education, and Arts Administration. Carrie has worked for numerous arts organizations in Minnesota, including the Ordway Center for the Performing Arts and the Walker Art Center.

As a performer, Carrie has been involved in many productions, most notably as Prince Orlofsky in Die Fladermaus by Strauss, and Annina in Verdi's La Traviata. She has also performed as a soloist for the Bach Magnificat, Handel's Messiah, and Vivaldi's Gloria.
